signs for the stamps are entirely satis-izetory. In fact the Filipinos who have been permitted to see the die proofs were delighted with them, but two objections have been raised, and these objections have been the subject of prolonged dis-cussion and consideration.

Question of Costume.

Question of Costume.

First and most serious, as stated at the outset, the question of attire for the native runner on the special delivery stamp. It is well known that formerly our special delivery stamp depleted a messenger boy, in full uniform, on the run, bearing in his hand a pouch containing the letter to be delivered. Later that was changed to a boy on bleyele, with his pouch slung across his back. As the bleyele is comparatively unknown in many parts of the Philippines it was deemed inadvisable to introduce the wheel on the special delivery stamp. Instead, the artist drew a picturesque representation of a native in undress dashing across the plains, a belching volcano in the distance. The Filipino messenger is naked except for a short shirt and a "coolle" hat on his head. In his hand he holds a letter.

Might Shock Some One.

Might Shock Some One.

Might Shock Some One.

When the officials of the Philippine Postoffice department saw this design they balked. That the artist had faithfully portrayed the native Filipino runner in all his clothesiess glory was freely admitted, but it was feared that set forth in brilliant ultramarine, upon important mail matter, this native in deshabille would shock the sensibilities of the upper classes and especially the people of the United States who might receive letters bearing this stamp.

On the other hand, it was pointed out that to clothe the native in a uniform would be to disregard conditions, a runner in uniform being unknown to the Filipinos. It has been decided not to permit the design to stand as originally drawn. The officials of the insular bureau of the War department has discovered that the attire of the native on the special delivery stamp is unusually complete compared with the costumes of natives depicted on some of the stamps of Africa.

"Postage?" Not Needed

"Postage" Not Needed.

"Postage" Not Needed.

The second objection was that nowhere upon the new Philippine stamps did the word "Postage" appear. It was also made clear to the officials that this omission was not serious, if, indeed, it could be regarded as an "mission. It was shown that few of the stamps of the British colonies have the word "Postage" on the design, and it has been decided practically to have the stamps printed as they appear on the de-proofs.

Of High Artistic Merit.

Of High Artistic Merit.

The new Philippine series of stamps will be the equal, and some stamp experts declare superior, to those of the United States in point of artistle merit. The denominations are Spanish and expressed in that language. The stamp of lowest value, the two centavos, equivalent to one cent, deplets the portrait of Rizal, the Filippine martyr who gave his life for his country. The four centavos has the face of McKinley, practically the same portrait as appeared upon the St Louis commemorative stamp. Six centavos depicts Magellan the famous explorer, who was killed on one of the Philippine islands in 1521 Eight centavos shows Legaspi, the first Spanish Governor of the Philippines, who founded Manila. Ten centavos, Gen. Lawton, the American general killed at the head of his troops in 159. Twelve centavos, William T. Sampson, the American admiral who commanded the fleet at Santiago. The rule of the department that no living American can be portrayed on postage stamps made it impossible to use the portrait of Admiral Dewey. Twenty centavos, George Washington. Twenty-six centavos, Carriedo, a famous and much-loved Spaniard who gave money to build the first waterworks system in Manila. Thirty centavos, Benjamin Franklin. One peso, coat of arms of the Filiplinos on a shield. The new stamps will be issued so as to be available early in the spring.
